The Viscount De L'Isle, M.B.E., V.C., K.G.

King Henry VIII's son, King Edward VI, presented the already centuries old Penshurst to Lord De L'Isle's direct forebear. A rambling private castle/palace with the acknowledged greatest original 14th century baronial hall in existence reflects in every paneled and tapestried chamber the full romance of generations of collectors and courtiers, soldiers and poets. The late Lord of Penshurst, William Sidney, Viscount De L'Isle, held the Victoria Cross, Britain's highest award for supreme gallantry in military action, he was also one of the Knights of the most coveted and most senior order, the Garter, and a former Governor General of Australia.
